① The merchant York, himself a simple man, grew dissatisfied in his simple trade, his simple gods, his simple life. Seeking only truth, he prayed to the Imploratus, & heard none. Because he could find no door to the heavens, no portals to the planes of Aethir, York hid himself in a deep mountain cave, & followed a Daemon down the forked forks, and curves, & labyrinthine labyrinths that lead down into the Underworld. The Devil, York reasoned, being a Devil, would keep less exclusive company.

② When on third day, the earth beneath his feet began to glow red-hot with fire, & the stench of sulphur pierced the air, Y made quite rightly assumed that he had reached - Underworld. As Daemon quaked his sleep, a broad stone door flung open - just for a moment - in darkness. When the Daemon slipped past - his, Y caught upon his cloak & was pulled inside - stone clang shut just behind him. The air was so thick & black smoke thick - Devil, Y reasoned, did not be far off.

③ But in his path, Daemons of all sorts - larger & smaller, lesser & greater, ugly & woolly-headed, pleasant & not - thronged towards - most immense Daemon of all. This D, surrounded by a great ring of infernal fire, stood between all Hell & Lord of Lamentation himself. As Y's D - a lesser, melancholy sort - approached. Got D of Threshold, he drew from his side a bronze shield, & hurried past ring of fire, untouched. But Y let go of D's cloak & yelp - & fell to ground. Oh, ye & faith of - hangover.

④ Muscularly, as a # of Ds stopped to hearken in anticipation of Y's fiery death, Y saw his chance. He plucked a like bronze shield, studded & 5 brilliant red rubies, from side of a cowering D - & plunged his way into D of fire. When bones touched his shield, they fell to his side, dissipated into purgent black smoke. Y, armed only & simple blade of simple merchant, slew Got D of Threshold in his surprise, & made his way down 2. Devil, who, reasonably amused, taught Y. Got Mysteries of Cosmos. //

Maye 15, 925 / Dear Melveaux, As we discussed, I will bring her to you next week after birth. Do not underestimate the importance of your task. Her spiritual progress + purification of her soul is essential to process. She will be a gift to all mankind.

Dr. Santonius

[Copied] Father Melveaux, I was much moved by yr tale of orphan request. You may take the baby + raise her until she reaches maturity.

Yours be with you, The Grand Inquisitor.

Estuary 18, 935 / Dearest Melveaux, I am delighted by A's progress.
I think that yr use of puzzles to sharpen her mind + spirit is working beautifully. And already, I can see promise in her music.
I will be sad to see her in a conservatory. Yours truly / Sophia.

August 5, 942 / Dear Father, I miss you. Madame Sophia seems to be paying much attention to me. She believes that in my soul, I possess the very power of music, + in practice I will find precious notes which are the "H of S". I'm not so sure. Everyone believes my music is strange. Do you think me strange? I know I am lonely.
Always missing you, Alexander.

Dearest Malvoix, / You will be glad to know Alexandria is flourishing here. She has a gift, of that I am certain. I have given her books on the Harmony of the Spheres & I believe she hears the notes in her dreams. Such a queer little thing; I see how she has won your heart, old monk.) This is a difficult process. At times I am uncertain - I don't know how hard to push - but I will not let you down. Such strange parents we make. / Sophia.

Malvoix, Our plans may be falling apart. Alexandria has, I believe, fallen in love - Lucien; you remember, Kaine's son. Nothing we do seems to have any impact on them; as if they were under some strange spell. You must put a stop to it. She has come so far with her music. Act quickly, or it will all have been for nothing us. / Sophia.

Malvoix, I am familiar - old school of alchemers. They believed that pure love was the 5th element. My father & I have refuted that naive, albeit charming, philosophy. Read this - S.

 I feel optimistic. He is a human being, & he is one person who

Be happy for me! your Alexandria

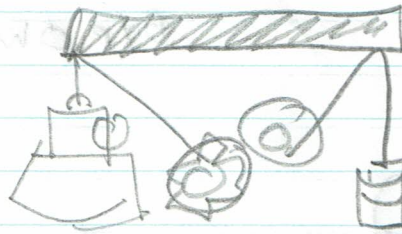

[Ephraim] May 22, 945 / Father, / There is said to go on & I hope
 I get out of here. Lucien wants to marry me. We will come to you at

Dear Sophia - The line has come. I think you will be proud of me when you see her. She is a charming brilliant child - & I have grown to care for little Alexandria as if her parents were my only office.

Her music is unlearned, but I hear in it - somewhere - the harmony of the spheres. It is time for you to distill. I expect much work & great things from both of you.

Randy, Malveaux.

March 2, 1944.

Dearest Madam, I have much unsettling news. It has come to my attention that Lucien Kaine is a troubled rebellious spirit - & his strange disposition - has been bothering Alexandria. Under your own roof, Madam! I fear she knows little of the ways of men -- who are not monks, that is. Please - you should know better than I -- Alexandria needs to study & perfect her art. / Randy Malveaux.

February 12, 924 / Dear Sophia,

Dr. Santorius is a brilliant man. This experiment will be the biggest breakthrough since the beginning of Zork. If you are still interested, make your way to the Temple of Agrippa.

But - take great care, & do not speak of it. There are those who misunderstand Alchemy: those who would kill for our secrets, in their search for gold. / Father Mulveaux

(N's handwriting?)

7 Orade / Dear Sophia,

I have had some success superconducting liquids in the generation of large crystals. It appears small crystals are ideal seeds for growth. I feel this combination of water + earth, heated with fire & burning with air, will provide fertile new avenues for our venture. / Santorius

22 Mage / Sophia, / Your concerns about the purity of my crystal generation is well-founded. I think I have a solution. It involves a dissolving of white calcium bromide, which has the added benefit of settling my acid indigestion while I am in the lab. / Santorius. (end of letter)

August 14, 938 / Sophia, / It is raining & grim here. The fields are muddy & littered w/ corpses. I am tired of all this. All I want in the world is to return to my castle. The battle at Flood Control Dam number 678 was more brutal than I expected. Ellron, backed by the Gockartens, has discovered some magical scroll which causes weapons to turn to fudge. It is disheartening & sticky. Lizzy wrote that she is spending the fall at her mother's villa in Altharia.  I know - & nothing I say will stop him. You say to be forceful -
 & I try - but he is my only son. It is hard for me to deny him that which he wants most. So, what then? / K.

Number 14, 1940 / S - / And so the holidays pass, & still, we are nowhere near each other. Kay & I are fighting again, which does dampen the festivities somewhat. It's not that she questions my formal loyalties to her & my family - she knows I will never leave her - but I suppose I can hardly blame her if she feels my heart is no better than any.
 How I hate to discuss these matters - as if I were a gossiping girl. I live where I live, & I love whom I love.
 Praise Yorak - that is all there is to say on the subject / K.

(Typed) Maddam Hamilton - I have refilled your black gas lamp. I also took the liberty of cleaning your lamp key slot.
 You should keep your key in your slot, Madam, cuz there was all kinds of dust & dirt in there & that no good.

Dr. Sartorius is a strange but fascinating man. As you know I am not prone to dabbling into strange, self-indulgent philosophies - or womeish New Age experiments - but there is something to the man, of that there can be no doubt.

And I still wonder - might the Doctor's way be the only way of securing power in this perpetually unstable world? I could have great use for him - & his philosopher's stone - in my campaign against the Enchanters. I cannot hold them back much longer.

Say noth - I will write you of this further. / Kaine

Madame Sophia, / You are right - we cannot wait any longer.

We must take a risk. Meet me at the Temple of Agrippa.

I will summon the others. What has begun must take its course.

It is our only chance - before we are destroyed - / Sartorius.

Dear Madame Sophia, While we have never been formally introduced, I feel as if I've known you for years now. At least, I know many things about you. I know you sleep with my husband. I know you're only one of his many mistresses. Or did you think that he loved only you?

Was he been teasing you with talk of your future, of marriage?

Did you imagine he would leave me for you, & you would rule Ironside as the next Lady Kaine? Let me assure you, Madame, that you have no future with my husband. He needs me, my family, & our lovely money. Without me, there is no Ironside. And there is nothing - and no one he loves more than that. / Elizabeth Kaine //

Thoughts from Al-Razjuki

- That the Whole of Astrologic is an Arte Musical, which Refletheth the operations and effects of Musical Note. The Pure Sound, the Subtile light, the Secret Influence of the Harmony of Stars + Planets Dwells in every Element. Of all the Music of the Spheres, this is the Greatest: Only the One Harmony of the Spheres has the power to hold + fix the Celestiall Influences, to keep them from recyding back into their Divyded, Erronimate Spheres. In this Single Way of Nature's Mastering is to be Attended.

But what is the Harmony, + How is it to be Discovered? There is in Music a certain Melody, a Singular Array of Notes, which, when Played with a Pure Heart, applies itself to Matter. By this Arte may the One Spirit be united to the Universall, + cause a Chain of Perfect Effect + Proportion. For the Magicall Properties of the Music of the Spheres draw entirely from Perfection of Musicall Proportions. The String of the Instrument is the limpid Spirit of Man, Extending from the Implementors to the Earth, + Partaking of both Extremes. Musicall Notes that lie along this String Note the Stages of the Spirit as it Desends into the Corpus, + Climbs back to the Implementors after Death. If this Scale is play'd in the Order True and Desired, the limpid String passes through Terra, Aqua, Aer, Ignis, and their corresponding notes C, D, E, B. The Order of the Elements is the Order of those notes along the String - the Harmony of the Spheres. When the Musician hears the Harmony of the Spheres //

Kaine - Your pathetic attempts to harness - lethal magic of Thaddium were futile. The Guild is now supporting my cause & we have smelt far more powerful than Thaddium. In five years, yr precious Trardine will be not more than dust blown in - wasted, & yr men as weak & wornish as yr own hucien.

But what of my mind guesswork & supplies? Am I to tolerate insurrection in name of my son's independence? It seems as if he wants need better than to irritate me. Much more of this & I will be forced to send him to his mother in Antham.

A perfect solution / Still, I hv sm msg, Before Air, yr plans suggest - simultaneous combination of forces of Fire, Water & Earth. Disember 12, 944 / Alexandria - There is something going on with my father. I thought it was something to do with Thaddius and his battles with Ellron. Now I suspect it is far more dangerous than that, he says little of his latest invention, only that it involves pure lead. and it is very dangerous. My father will not harm us, but I fear he cannot save us either. You once said you wanted to explore the Empire, voyage across the Great Sea. Come with me / Lucien Suspender 1, 944 / My dear girl. / Please do not be upset.

Madame Sophie wants only the best for you. You will always be my child, my only family. But you must always remember that you are one of those people for whom life has chosen a special destiny. We all believe in your magical talent. Be pure of heart + spirit + I shall always be /

Your loving father

Alexandria, / My father wants not to join his army in the fight against the Eucharist's Guild + Ellron. He's been our nemesis for so long, I feel I know him intimately. Magic, power + politics, when did they get so complicated + corrupt? My father says he fights in the name of honor + truth. No truth I know of. Medicine, Education, Law + Religion: they mean nothing to me. My only truth is you + your music / Lucien.

General; I have found on them pertinent to yr collection - a most remarkable weapon of assassination: a sword that works as a snake, & a clever cannon disguised as a cat. Lord Plathead himself commissioned a magazine of arms to show that his compassion for animals runs as deep as his nature is violent.

I will arrange to show at yr convenience. Sincerely, M. K. Frobbsworth //

Ottawa 16, 930 / Dearest Thaddeus -- He lies here in my bed & listens to The Poetics & I miss u. Damn Elbron. I know u a fight for what u believe in. I hate him for what he's done to u, & I hate him even more for keeping u from me. But still, there are those I hate more / I'm so jealous, Thaddeus; you can pick up a sword & you can pick up a sword & you can pick up a sword & you can pick up a sword. None of all u love. My enemy is bosomy & soft-spoken -- & she wears a dress & sleeps in yr bed, my heart. Wld that I could be yr wife, that we could have a family, & smile me thru stolen moments, this last life of mine. / I cling to our dear Mad Doctor & his dreams of oblivion. For an eternity & u, I will endure all his pretensions, alchemical trumpeting -- & fifty Ladykames -- & a hundred Elbrons!

As ever, Sophie. //

Number 3, 943 / Kaine, I read abt Elbron & his alliance & Enchanters Guild, & I wept for u. These are dangerous times, & I will not sleep until all those who mean u harm are put to eternal rest. But I think heart, know that we are deciphering the secrets of the magical science & each new day. Soon, love, we will not worry abt power. // Sophie //

Jan 16, 929 / Darling Thaddeus, / Crushed - barbarian hordes & even - grand Syovar sons content! Congratulations on yr recent victories; but the heel upon yr return. The battle is far from over. In your absence, Elbron has discovered a powerful scroll & I'm scared. We're deep into it. At work. If they learn of our secrets, - Enchanters Guild, & others, will surely kill us. / Sophie. //

October 20, 1929 / The 5th essence is the Q: the elixir of life, - phil's stn Alchemist fools thru - centuries he looked at metals, vapors & gases. And love! What not! Letters: Mage 15, 1925 / Dr. Santorius, It has been called to our attention that you have been practicing unorthodox & unalloyed magic. Dear Dr. Frobbian, / Open ye purple mind! Madness is a disease, not - state of mind. I see that every day in my patients; forgotten wraiths who have only me to defend them. And defend them I shall. Like any disease; if Madness can be studied, it can be cured. How can I cure - body of disease if I am forbidden to open the body to study it? If I am denied funds for x-rays & medication & - staff of Physicians? My Asylum shall be - place of progress, not - final rest place for - damned! / - Dr. Santorius

Good Doctor, / Since yr cure, my son has kept sight of his Magic Eye. He still sees things that cannot be seen, & for - fortnight he has wept for a day & night. He begged me to write you - word. There is - evil wait for you. You will soon be dead, he cries, - Asylum destroyed, yr work unfinished. He fears powers he has disturbed, & - innocent will pay. Good luck, Doctor. May Yourk be in you. / S.J.M. //

 Each metal requires its own Adept. I must enlist others in my search; but I must take care. Alchemy draws vain fools, in search of common gold, + I must seek out
