"Magnets, Molecules, &amp; Flying Monkeys" by Prof Gabriel G. Markson

Magical monkey Herb flies. Plus his every atom is still. Atoms attract magnets.

Magnetic field produces suspended animation. (phone rings)

answer phone. (Mike says come to lab for Herb's big day) x computer, x spreadsheet open door. n. [Lab here] E1N (lab W, classroom test etc)W (think about Claudia) Please Six weeks later... Claudia + you in bed; she wants to talk [In Claudia's bedroom] talk to Claudia. (She's worried about tomorrow's test.)

Claudia, you, + Mike have all tried field, + feel dizzy, disoriented.

? 1) Not to worry / 2) You're worried too / 3) It's either push on or give up / 4) Say nil

2 → But you think it's because everything moves, like teleport. But it's a guess.

Longest anyone's been in field was 9 for 5 hrs. ~~that~~ talk to Claudia. "Are we going too far? Do you believe in God?"

1) Ofc I believe, 2) Want to but doubt, 3) No, disbelief, 4) Say nil

3 → upsets her. She believes, she worries they're thinking ē God's operating code, instead of God.

talk to Claudia. What if consequence of break God's rule is that rules stay broken.

And we break them? 1) Interesting idea, 2) Boring now, 3) Makes no sense, 4) Say nil.

1 → like, creating anti gravity means no more gravity? Basically, yes.

Ok, we're safe. We're just applying laws creatively. She's worried that we don't understand consequences.

I agree to 10 more days testing, then go under for 4 days, if we know answer or not.

Through Ten days later... [mag lab] l. shelves, tools, equip, Herb's cage,
